this puts silent hill to shame. This is one of the only things that I remember from my childhood. I was so excited when I found out that it's on Steam. My dad, my sister and I would play this and Toonstruck all the time and recently I bought Toonstruck on GOG and I just bought this today and have completed the first half in just under 2 hours. I can't believe I can still remember what to do after about 12 years or more. So good to be able to play again! :-)

I also can't believe this has bad reviews??? 10/10. The navigation system reminds me of the time I ate rancid calamari drank half a tub of bleach hurled myself down the stairs then tried to run to the nearest seven eleven half naked, overall a pretty good experience.. While it was ahead of its time when released and the gameplay is unique to say the least the story and plot are utterly horrific. That being said I am currently working on speedrunning it for kicks and because I actually gain a small amount of enjoyment from bad games and movies.. This game has everything - little kid protagonist, female reindeer nudity, gore, some form of racism, Santa's little gnomes that you will use to trigger deadly traps, cute fluffy bunnies - also to trigger traps, and the most ridiculous, unsolvable with human logic puzzles. And the weirdest 3D graphics that I have ever seen. Still I'm not sure what I played but you need to try this! It's actually quite enjoyable!

"It's a little gnome!". I strapped an alarm clock and some TNT to the Duracell Bunny to make a time bomb.. 11/10 Better than any other game in my library.
